

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

If every book has many people who make it possible, an essay collection like this certainly has far too many to name comprehensively. That said, we of course must acknowledge Anne Ruggles Gere here, as we do through the making of this Festschrift. We thank our series editors (Rich Rice, J. Michael Rifenburg, Jonathan M. Marine, Johanna Phelps, Qingyang Sun, and Susan McLeod) and all at the WAC Clearinghouse (especially Mike Palmquist, Heather Falconer, and Karen Peirce), who have been so supportive of this project from the start. Thanks as well to our talented and hard-working contributors, our anonymous reviewers, the Joint Program in English and Education community at the University of Michigan, all the many student writers and researchers in the field whose thinking and work are reflected here, and the many colleagues at our home institutions, friends, and family members in our respective networks who have supported our work (especially Tim Larsen, Richard Hughes Gibson, and Brita Beitler).
